

Ambassador Myron T. Herrick sails for his second appointment as ambassador of the United States to France.

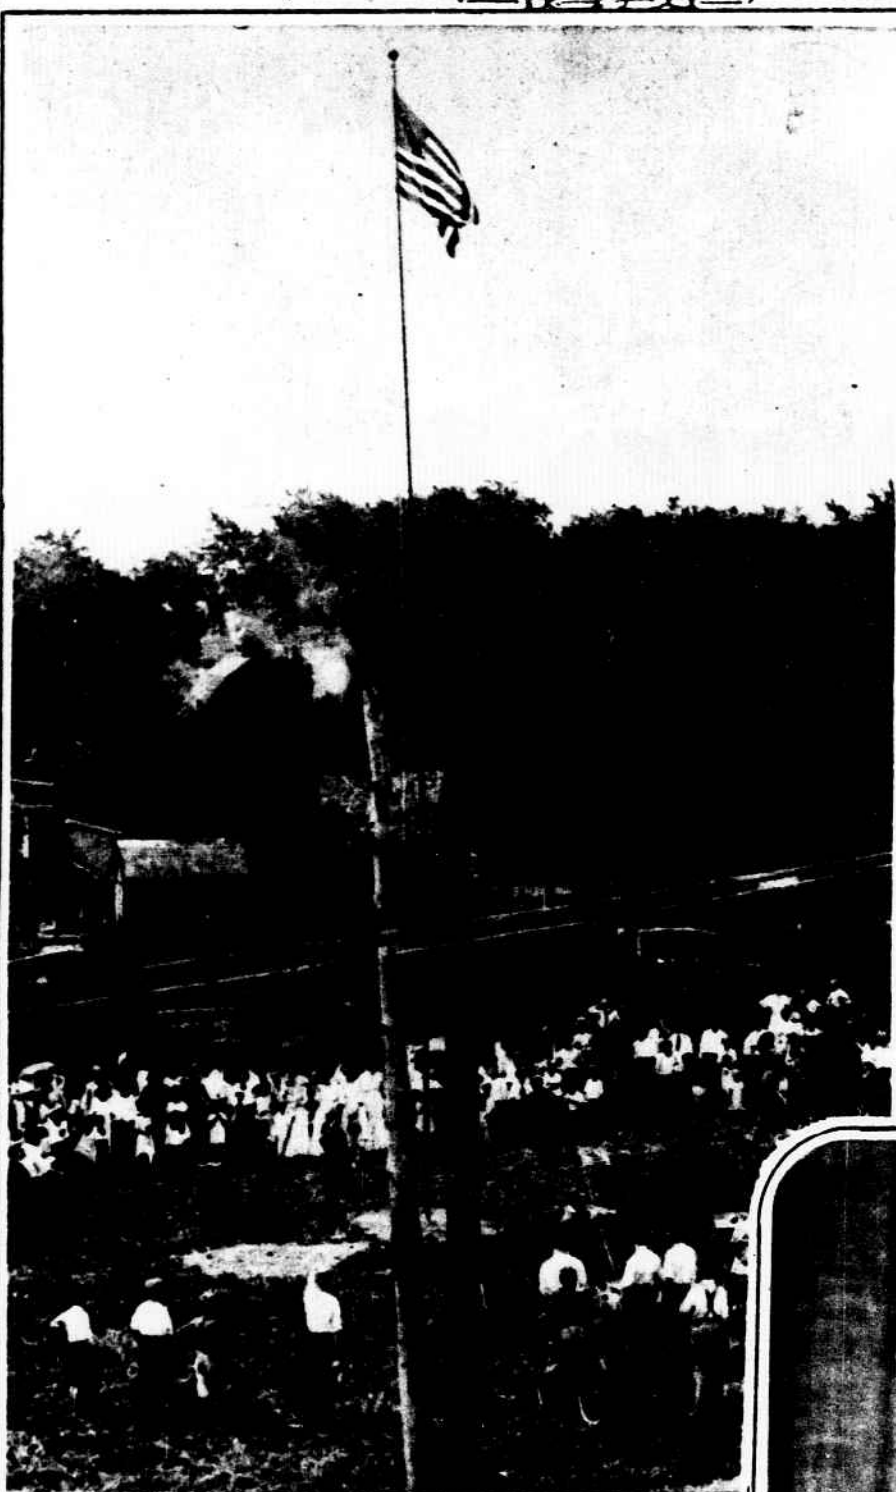

President Harding and a group of the Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men who came to Washington to initiate the President into the order. Insert: A. G. Rutherford of Nashville, Tenn., the Great Inchoonee, supreme head of the Improved Order of Red Men, who conferred the degree of adoption upon President Harding recently.

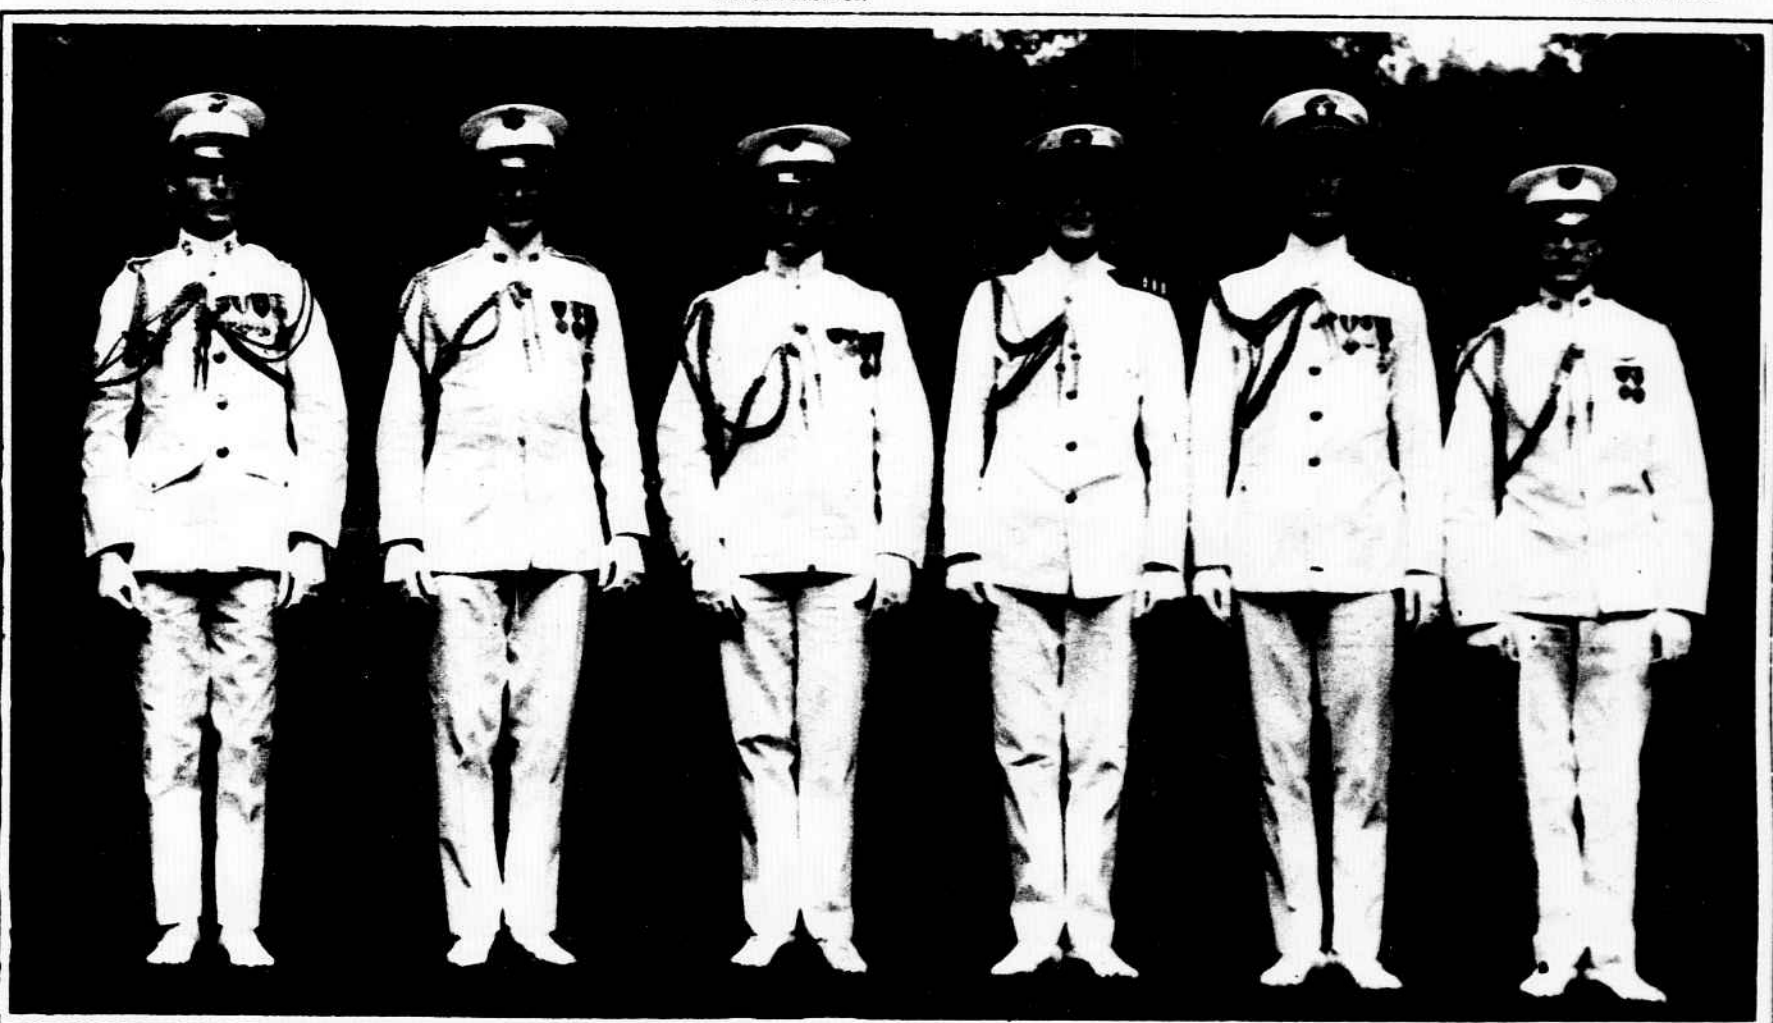

Have you a little sunflower in your garden? This particular sunflower grows in the garden of L. H. Middlekauff, 439 H street northwest. It is eleven feet in height and still growing.

aid the Min-

Scene at raising of the flag at Clarendon, Va., on morning of July 4. The town owns the flag and its flagpole.

President Harding's military and naval aides photographed at the White House, all wearing their summer uniforms of white. Left to right: Capt. Lemuel C. Shepherd, U. S. M. C.; Maj. H. H. Rayner, U. S. cavalry; Lieut. Col. Clarence C. Sherrell, U. S. Engineers; Commander R. S. Holmes, U. S. N.; Lieut. Commander Robert M. Griffin, U. S. N.; Maj. O. M. Baldinger, U. S. A.

"A Little Bird Told Me So." Photograph by Mrs. C. L. Viner, 705 Kentucky avenue southeast, winner of The Star's weekly prize of $10 for the best amateur photograph.

Replica of the Mayflower goes to Plymouth for the tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims. The new Mayflower is supposed to be an exact copy of the old ship.

Driving a headless horse. Photograph from the collection of Charles A. Harbaugh, 2800 13th street northeast. The camera caught the horse when he suddenly turned his head to the other side.

Philip A. de Laszlo, the distinguished painter who held an exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art recently, at work on a portrait of Gen. Pershing. The artist will soon start work on a portrait of President Harding.